Maintenance. City crews meeting benchmark for road quality but admit weather, heavy traffic volume pose problems

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Crews work to repair 2,000 roadway issues in Calgary each week during the spring, but data provided by the city still indicates a wide variance in pavement quality.

Overall, the city aims for a score of 7.0 on its aggregate pavement-quality index rating and currently sits a hair short at 6.9, according to roads department spokesperson Sean Somers.

He said rapidly changing weather patterns and heavy traffic volume have a tendency to speed up wear and tear on major thoroughfares.

"The reality is for us it's impossible to be in all places all the time," said Somer, before encouraging residents to report potholes to 311.

Of the city's nearly 16,000 kilometres of laned roadway, the worst patch currently belongs to the stretch of Elbow Drive S.W. from Glenmore Trail to Southland Drive.

For a map detailing Calgary's best and worst roads and input from motorists on the worst patches in the city, head to metronews.ca/calgary.

City initiative

Councillors divided on anti-drug campaign proposal

Months after a particularly toxic ecstasy compound was linked to the deaths of more than a dozen Albertans, city administrators are bringing forward a proposal for an anti-drug campaign that could cost up to $150,000.

But at least two aldermen feel as though time has passed for the initiative.

"I am wondering now if it's actually necessary," said Ward 14 representative Peter Demong. "The police have done a great job ... I am wondering if there's a way I can return that $150,000 to city coffers."

The proposed campaign, which will be mulled by a city committee Wednesday, comes in response to a request for an anti-drug education effort by Ald. John Mar that gained majority support among aldermen in February — just as deaths were being linked almost weekly to a compound known as PMMA.

Mar did not return inquiries for comment Sunday.

The last reported deaths linked to the toxin were announced in late March; however, Calgary police have cautioned that dealers may be sitting on a supply of the drug until the heat dies down.

Ald. Gael MacLeod believes the proposed campaign is still a worthy cause.

"Investing in these things often creates longer-term savings for the city," she said, referring to general public health costs.

The city report outlying the proposed initiative says it would serve to complement efforts by the Calgary Police Service and Alberta Health Services, which have used tools like social media to spread anti-drug messaging and education.

Stamps training camp. Calgarians flock to McMahon

Calgary's definitely in a full-blown spring mindset — flowers blooming, patios open, festival season kicking off and the Calgary Stampeders back in action.

The team held their first training camp on Sunday, with roughly 80 players on the roster.

It's obviously a big day for players, but for fans as well, scouting players and comparing the prospective team to last year's.

Belinda Mitchell is a third generation season ticket holder and comes to training camp every year.

"I don't know anything else," she said. "They (the Stampeders) are faster, way faster. But it's day one so they're all pretty hyper and fresh."

Scott Walkey has held season tickets for five years and can't wait for the season to start.

"I'm tired of hockey, let's get into football," he said, adding he thinks the Stamps' defensive line will be tough to beat this year. "I'm pretty excited."

Football season is a family affair for Walkey, as he brought his two-year-old son, Hunter, to as many games as he could last year — beginning a new generation of Stamps fans.

TESSA CLAYTON/METRO

Scott Walkey and son Hunter were at the Stampeders' training camp Sunday afternoon. Scott was scouting out the new team and hoping to get the front page sports picture of his son at last year's Fan Fest signed by Akwasi Antwi.

Family cries foul over fine in fatal incident

Justice. Calgary wife believes jail time fitting after incident that left husband dead, herself injured

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Still coping with the loss of her loving husband, who was struck and killed by a distracted driver last fall, a Calgary woman says the justice system needs to crack down on dangerous behaviour behind the wheel.

Margaret Lau was taking a leisurely stroll on the inside shoulder of a road in Kelowna, B.C., with her husband Yew Loong Yee last October when they were struck from behind by a vehicle that veered completely across the oncoming lane of traffic.

Late last month, the driver, 61-year-old Laurel Skalicky, pleaded guilty to driving without due care and attention after it was revealed she was attempting to adjust an air freshener inside the vehicle.

She was slapped with a $1,500 fine, but that did little to convince Lau that justice has been served.

"Obviously we feel it should have been more," she said. "It's not right, he (Yee) was taken from us."

Lau was also injured in the incident and will never forget her panic after awaking in a nearby field moments after being struck.

"I woke up and turned around and saw my husband on the ground . . . that was it," she said.

Crown determines charges

Const. Kris Clark with the Kelowna RCMP, which handled the fatal collision investigation said charges in such instances are generally left up to the Crown prosecutors, who will go after a penalty that is most likely to gain a conviction.

Cross-Canada search for Dorothy hits Calgary

The casting call was made and young women across Canada are answering it.

Live auditions for CBC's Over the Rainbow reality TV show took place on Sunday in Calgary, with more than 30 girls auditioning for the part of Dorothy in the musical "The Wizard of Oz."

Participants were vying for a golden ticket to the top 100 in Toronto, where the competition narrows.

"It's something about the spirit — it's the innocence, the hope," said casting director Stephanie Gorin.

"Dorothy was just trying to find her way in the world ... she should feel like a teenager who wants desperately to become an adult."

Taylor Steedman, 18, was the first Dorothy wannabe who receieved a golden ticket in Calgary.

"My dad got here at 7 a.m. — he was the first one here," she said with a laugh. "I'm looking forward to Toronto definitely, just because of the people you'll meet," she said.

It wasn't just locals singing their hearts out — 17-year-old Emily Blake flew from Nanaimo, B.C., for her shot at fame.

Calgary was the second city to stage auditions, which started in Vancouver last Friday. Seven tickets to the top 100 were handed out here.

TESSA CLAYTON/METRO

Taylor Steedman, 18, was the first of seven Calgary contestants to receive a golden ticket to the top 100 Dorothy auditions in Toronto on June 21.

A surveillance image provided by Interpol shows a man who authorities believe is Luka Rocco Magnotta at a security checkpoint area. Police are investigating two claimed sightings in France of the Canadian wanted in connection with a gruesome murder in Montreal. INTERPOL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manhunt on after Magnotta apparently spotted in France

Body-parts case. French newspaper reports police were able to trace suspect's itinerary through cellphone activity

The suspect in the gruesome killing and dismemberment of a Chinese student in Montreal was spotted in France over the weekend but police aren't ruling out the possibility he could still be on the move.

Montreal police confirmed Sunday that Luka Rocco Magnotta was in the European country as recently as Friday.

"The man was seen in France, that's what French authorities told us," police spokesman Ian Lafreniere told reporters.

Lafreniere cautioned that Magnotta may no longer be in France, and wouldn't rule out the possibility he had since returned to Canada or headed elsewhere in Europe.

"He's someone who has been known to travel, so we're not taking any chances and we want to keep an open mind," Lafreniere said. "We've received more than 360 tips — it's huge, people really want to help."

Magnotta, 29, is wanted in the slaying of Jun Lin, 33, who was a student at Montreal's Concordia University. Lin's torso was found in a suitcase that had been left out for garbage collection outside Magnotta's Montreal apartment last week. Other severed body parts, including a hand and a foot, were mailed to the offices of political parties in Ottawa.

French media reported Sunday that personal belongings of the porn actor were found in a hotel in suburban Paris. The reports said police discovered pornographic magazines as well as air-sickness bags from the flight he took to Paris from Montreal.

Police believe Magnotta fled to France on May 26.

Toronto police search for gunman

The investigation into a deadly shooting rampage that set off a mass panic at the Toronto Eaton Centre focused Sunday on the shooter behind the brazen attack, as police and local authorities reassured the public that Toronto remains a safe city.

Police confirmed that Saturday's shooting at one of Canada's busiest shopping malls — which killed one and injured seven others — was a targeted act.

Investigators said the man who was killed, identified as Ahmed Hassan, 24, of Toronto, had known gang ties. At least one of the victims may also have gang connections, police said. "It may be that both of them have gang affiliations ... but we do believe that our deceased in this case may have had some gang affiliation," said Det. Sgt. Brian Borg.

Police sounded confident they know the identity of the gunman, but did not elaborate, saying they did not want to influence first-hand accounts still pouring in a day after the attack.

Investigators were reviewing security video in their hunt for the shooter and interviewing witnesses who were among the hundreds of people in the downtown shopping mall when the gunfire erupted, causing panicked shoppers to charge toward the exit in a wild pandemonium.

Seven people suffered either gunshot wounds or injuries in the stampede. The most seriously injured was a 23-year-old man who suffered multiple gunshot wounds to his neck and chest. He remained in hospital in critical condition.

A 13-year-old boy who was visiting Toronto with his family suffered a gunshot wound to his head and remained in critical condition Sunday, though police said his injuries were no longer considered life-threatening.

Aftermath

- "One idiot with a gun on a Saturday afternoon in Toronto does not speak to the state of the city.... Please do not gauge the city on what we saw yesterday," said acting deputy police chief Jeff McGuire.

Queen celebrates Diamond Jubilee

London. More than one million spectators line the London river in the rain to salute Queen Elizabeth II's 60 years on the throne

The River Thames became a royal highway Sunday, as Queen Elizabeth II led a motley but majestic flotilla of more than 1,000 vessels in a waterborne pageant to mark her Diamond Jubilee.

In a colourful salute to the island nation's maritime past, an armada of skiffs and sailboats, rowboats and paddle steamers joined a flower-festooned royal barge down an 11-kilometre stretch of London's river.

With a crowd of rain-soaked spectators estimated by organizers at 1.25 million, the pageant was the largest public event in four days of celebrations of the monarch's 60 years on the throne. Monday, the queen will join thousands of revellers at an outdoor concert beside Buckingham Palace, headlined by pop royalty including Paul McCartney and Elton John.

The queen travelled down a river transformed during her reign, from the commercial and industrial heart of London to a tourist's playground.

More than 150 killed in Nigerian plane crash

A passenger plane carrying more than 150 people crashed in Nigeria's largest city on Sunday, killing all passengers and crew aboard, an emergency official said. Several charred corpses could be seen in the rubble of a building damaged by the crash, as firefighters searched for survivors and pulled a dead body from the wreckage.

Nigeria's Civil Aviation Authority Harold Demuren said that all aboard Sunday's Dana Air flight had died. He did not say how many were on the flight.

The Lagos state government said in a statement that 153 people were on the flight going to Lagos from Abuja.

Yushau Shuaib, spokesman for the National Emergency Management Agency, said there were likely more casualties on the ground, but the number was unknown.

The plane did not to appear to have nose-dived into a building, but seemed to have landed on its belly. It first crashed through a furniture shop and then into residential buildings next to the workshop in this densely packed neighbourhood.

Interest rate hike? Experts think not

Economic outlook. Friday's report on Canadian GDP showed a 1.9 per cent growth, well below the central bank's April call for a 2.5 per cent advance

Is the next move for Mark Carney to cut interest rates?

The question would have seemed unthinkable a few weeks ago given that the Bank of Canada governor's last pronouncement on the subject was to issue a wink and a nudge about upcoming hikes.

The signal-sending language — "some modest withdrawal of the present considerable monetary policy surplus may be appropriate" — contained in the April interest-setting statement sent markets into speculation hyper-drive that rates could be heading north as early as the summer. Tuesday's upcoming announcement was never in play and isn't in play now.

Economists are as unanimous as can be that Carney will keep the policy rate moored at one per cent a little while longer. But now the speculation has turned full circle about the nature of the next move, whenever it comes.

"The state of the world is increasingly making clear that a rate hike at this point would be premature," said Avery Shenfeld, chief economist with CIBC World Markets.

The revived crisis in Greece, the growing banking crisis in Spain, unresolved debt problems in Italy and Portugal, had already lengthened the odds on Carney moving this fall, and likely made him regret his April assessment that Europe's crisis had moved from "the acute to the chronic."

But if there was any doubt remaining, Friday's onslaught of weak and very weak data from Canada, the United States, China and Brazil, following a bad output number out of India Thursday, removed it.

Friday's report on Canadian gross domestic product did not show the economy tanking in the first quarter, but at 1.9 per cent growth it was well below the central bank's April call for a 2.5 per cent advance. It now looks unlikely the bank's equally optimistic 2.5 per cent for the second quarter will come to fruition either.

And given the Canadian export sector's reliance on flush U.S. consumers, the miserly gain of 69,000 jobs reported south of the border for May was even a worse signal that the next few months will yield at best craw-speed momentum. China and Brazil also reported soft economic data.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Economy

Carney's previous signal on interests rates was predicated on the assumption that Canada's growth rate would smoothly expand at about 2.5 per cent throughout 2012, enabling the economy to return to full capacity in the first half of 2013.

Walmart draws stars

Robson Walton, left, chairman of the board of directors of Walmart and son of the late Walmart founder Sam Walton, greets actor Justin Timberlake during the Walmart shareholders' meeting held in the basketball arena at the University of Arkansas Friday. Timberlake hosted the event, arriving in a hula skirt to symbolize a story told about the founder dancing a hula on Wall Street after losing a bet. During the meeting, CEO Mike Duke told the crowd that the retailer is committed to integrity in the wake of recent bribery allegations in Mexico. APRIL L. BROWN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffett hopes lunch auction raises big bucks

It's true that Warren Buffett hired the hedge fund manager who won the last two private lunches with him that are part of an annual auction, but he doesn't expect the event to become a recruiting tool for Berkshire Hathaway.

He offered Ted Weschler a job after he'd paid nearly $5.3 million over two years to dine with Buffett.

Trade. Premiers demand compensation if Ottawa concedes to EU demands

The provincial premiers have undertaken a letter-writing campaign to demand compensation from the federal government for any increase in drug costs that might come of a free trade agreement with Europe.

B.C. Premier Christy Clark says she and other premiers have each written to Ottawa urging federal negotiators not to agree to anything that would drive up the cost of pharmaceuticals.

Among the European Union's demands are an extension of brand-name patents for up to five years to compensate companies for time tied up in bureaucratic approvals.

They also want to extend the time that a brand-name company's recipe for a drug would remain secret from companies trying to make knock-offs.

And while Ottawa has not yet formally agreed to any of the demands, it has not ruled anything out either — leaving many provincial and federal insiders, as well as trade experts, to suspect the federal government will bend to at least part of the EU ask. The provinces say they would amount to longer patent protection for brand-name pharmaceuticals, driving up medical bills for provincial drug plans, employer plans and individuals alike.

CITIZENS POWERLESS ON CELLPHONE TOWERS

URBAN COMPASS
Janice Paskey
calgary@metronews.ca

It refused to pay rent, held a meeting on a long weekend, and called it a consultation. Done deal. That was Cambrian Heights' experience with a teleco and its community consultation for a new cellphone tower.

"As a citizen, you feel powerless," says Caroline Bartel, then the president of the community association.

"It's not NIMBYism, I get frustrated when I hear (at the meetings), 'we're willing to work with the technology' but are there more innovative technologies out there? Are there innovations?" The city now encourages cellphone towers on city land to get lease money. There is no limit.

On June 7, the city will consider new rules to share the spoils: community associations and not-for-profits will get a share of the cellphone tower leases. Risk factors cited? Community division and school board opposition. Key organizations are now risks.

Life line

As MLA, Alison Redford wrote to IC to ask for a better process, and legendary Mississauga mayor Hazel McCallion has asked Industry Canada for a six-month moratorium until the process is revised.

In Tuscany, the highest tower in Canada was proposed. "The process is really the problem," says former CA president Glen Furtado. "The cellphone providers aren't transparent and they are pretty selective about information they share." City documents now mention community association life cycle repairs in the same sentence as cellphone tower leases. Will there be city grants for CAs who object to cellphone towers?

Industry Canada controls the process, and it's stacked toward industry. As MLA, Alison Redford wrote to IC to ask for a better process, and legendary Mississauga Mayor Hazel McCallion has asked Industry Canada for a six-month moratorium until the process is revised.

I share health concerns from scientists and citizens who cite radiation sickness and increased cancer rates for those living near towers or under rooftop telecommunication equipment. Canada's regulations are the least stringent of all developed countries. Industry Canada, not Health Canada, runs the show.

The mayor (as a candidate) called on Calgarians to have a conversation. So where is it? Citizens may want wireless technology but how about time for options: do they want a significant decrease in their housing price when a tower is nearby? Do they want increased health risks? Is there any monitoring of radiation from the towers? Are there any fines for telecos who exceed safety limits, or "jam" the signal? How about visual pollution? Is there safer technology?

The conversation is mute.

Bus driver hailed as hero after controlling vehicle despite deadly wound

Chinese are hailing a bus driver who maintained control of his vehicle and ensured passengers' safety despite being struck by a chunk of iron that smashed through his windscreen while driving a bus near Beijing last week.

Wu Bin ultimately died of his injuries from Tuesday's freak accident, but not before braking, shifting gears and telling passengers not to wander onto the highway. His hometown of Hangzhou in eastern China has praised him as a hero and a role model.

Dramatic security camera footage broadcast Sunday on state television showed the object hitting Wu and his calm handling of the situation, despite being in obvious pain. Wu died Friday.

China has a history of praising acts of selflessness and courage to inspire responsibility in an increasingly competitive and sometimes callous society.

Pair shares their love of horses so equine dream can come true for sick girl

News Worth Sharing

Media will always have to report on the tough stuff. But we know that Canada is full of compassionate individuals, inspiring projects and stories worth celebrating. Here's just one.

We know about putting money on the horses.

But raising money for them?

You bet.

Rebecca Richardson and Kelsey Simpson are sharing their love of horses with someone who's only dreamed of riding.

Upon deciding to make a difference in their community, the girls discovered, through the Rainbow Society of Alberta, that they could brighten the life of a chronically ill girl who had hoped to one day ride a horse.

Richardson and Simpson organized an event to raise money for the purchase of a horse and gear for the anonymous recipient.

Like all quiet heroes, the girls don't need to meet the recipient to know they've made a difference.

Just knowing that she is getting a chance to live her equine dreams is enough.

Chefs and restaurateurs: What's on the playlist almost as important as what's on the menu

Corey Hart's comeback a point of 'pride' for singer

Remix. Sunglasses at Night singer gets inspired to remake Truth Will Set You Free and bring its gay-positive message to the forefront

When Corey Hart included Truth Will Set You Free on his 1988 album Young Man Running, few among his legions of fans likely realized that the song was intended as a gay-positive anthem of affirmation for anyone struggling with his or her sexuality.

For one thing, the Montreal-born pop star wanted it that way. He was intentionally cryptic in the lyrics of the soaring tune, couching the true meaning of its be-yourself-at-all-costs mantra in subtext. The reason for the secrecy? Hart wanted to protect the close friend who had inspired the song, someone whose sexuality was a source of self-doubt and pain.

Now, Hart is issuing a dance floor-friendly remix of the tune, one which swaps the contemplative soft-rock of the original for an icy club groove and pulls those themes that coursed under the original's surface to the fore with new lyrics inspired, in part, by the 1998 murder of gay university student Matthew Shepard.

And to make positively sure those newly prominent themes resonate, Hart — who willingly receded from the musical spotlight to raise his children — will mark his first Canadian performance in a decade during Toronto's Pride festival.

"The gay aspect of this song was an important message that I wanted to send out there, especially being a straight man — I thought it was important to say this," he added.

But it certainly wasn't a typical journey to get to this point.

The idea to re-record his 24-year-old song began with an unsolicited email request from a DJ whom Hart had never heard of. 1Love — whose real name is Paul Todd — wasn't writing in regard to either Sunglasses at Night or Never Surrender. Hart was intrigued, but it wasn't until he got to know Todd that he became persuaded to revisit the track.

Todd was just a music lover from Kingston, Ont., who was driving a cab at night to support his four kids.

Perhaps more important to Hart was the opportunity to re-record his vocals with new lyrics.

"I felt (it was) necessary to take the song much further than I had in 1988," Hart said.

The Word

We're finally worried about Charlie Sheen

THE WORD
Monica Weymouth
scene@metronews.ca

Brooke Mueller has landed herself back in rehab, but the situation might not be as bad as it seems.

Despite a history of drug abuse and saying "I do" to Charlie Sheen, the sometimes-actress' lawyers say the stay is a perfectly routine "pre-planned event," and that reports of a crack-cocaine binge with her ex-husband are entirely false.

For his part, Sheen doesn't know who he agrees with just yet — but that doesn't mean he won't attempt to talk about it.

Here's his statement on the matter to TMZ: "I can't speak to anyone's opinion or judgement. I was there, they were not, their tepid hearsay is a baseless static drone.

"A mantra, their theme. I refuse to be held hostage by their 'constitutional' privilege, to judge those who can and who do. nabobs. CS"

It took a while, but we are finally confused by the choices of Charlie Sheen. This man is a professional Drunkest Guy Last Night, and yet this is the statement he releases?

Charlie, this is familiar territory: sleep in, take a shower, throw on a little bronzer and surface in gym clothes with a leafy bag from Whole Foods. This showing-up-to-breakfast-in-sunglasses stuff is for amateurs.

Has he learned nothing?

When asked who will play him in the inevitable biopic, Bill Clinton generously settled on George Clooney during an interview on Piers Morgan Tonight.

Now, as for Hillary? He'd like to cast Meryl Streep.

We think this was a compliment, but Bill, trust us: assuming you're still around for a next time, the answer you are looking for here is "Angelina Jolie, Charlize Theron or a young Heidi Klum."

Leo DiCaprio better off without Baywatch: Hasselhoff

Baywatch may have been a huge success for David Hasselhoff, but he thinks at least one movie star is better off for not getting a part on the series. Leonardo DiCaprio auditioned for the role of Hasselhoff's son — a part that eventually went to Jeremy Jackson — according Movieline.

"You know what, it was the best thing to happen to Leonardo DiCaprio," Hasselhoff says. "I saw Leonardo DiCaprio and I said, 'You know what, that was the best thing that ever happened to you! You would have never gotten Titanic and have been this big star. You'd be like Jeremy Jackson and David Hasselhoff, looking for work.'"

Justin Bieber

Justin Bieber takes a backstage tumble

Justin Bieber is recovering from a possible concussion and a bruised ego after walking into a glass wall backstage at a Paris concert, according to TMZ. The singer returned to the stage to finish his set, but he reportedly lost consciousness briefly backstage after the show. Local doctors diagnosed him with a concussion. Bieber is taking it well, though, posting on Twitter, "Just smacked my head and needed some water. All good. I'm Canadian. We are tough." This isn't the first time Bieber has been fooled by the translucent nature of glass walls and doors. Online video clips show him walking into the glass partition of a revolving door in 2010 and a glass wall at a radio station office later that year.

Save money. Live better.

Budgeting

Got a big family? Here's how to save time and money

Have a daughter? Don't cut her bangs. Once you start cutting bangs, you're a slave to trimming them.

Don't buy bikes with white wheels. If you get your princess a pink bike with white wheels, little brother may be reluctant to take it on when sister outgrows it. Sacrifice glitter and ribbons for a good hand-me-down situation.

Have your babies close in age. This year, I had three kids on the SAME hockey team. This means only one rink at one time.

Don't cheap out on big-ticket items. If you buy your first kid a cheap bike, it's not going to get through the rest of your clan. You're better off buying top-quality baby products and sports equipment.

Father's Day gift: The 52 Reasons I Love You Jar

Looking for the perfect Father's Day gift? The 52 Reasons I Love You Jar is a great idea! This is a three-ingredient activity that kids can make as a gift for Dad — that keeps giving.

Grab a jar, paper and crayons. Have your child write out 52 hand-written notes using the prompt "I love you because …" (I love you because you take me to soccer, I love you because you tell fart jokes, I love you because you read to me ...)

Drop them into the jar. Dad can choose one note each week for the next year. This activity gives kids an opportunity to think about why Dad is special. It's a great way for kids to practice handwriting and brainstorming. And it's free!

When yes is better than no

First response. Saying no comes naturally when children ask for anything outside of the master plan, but it can stifle development

JENNIFER KOLARI
yummymummyclub.ca

"Mommy, let's have a picnic lunch under the dining room table.

"Why would we do that when we have a table?" I said without even looking up from my emails and piled-up paperwork.

"Why not?" asked my daughter.

I tore myself away from the screen to look at her. She was flushed with excitement. Even the ends of her hair seemed to be electrified as she bounced from foot to foot, imploring me with her cockeyed smile

"Sure, let's do it!" I said.

She was surprised by my answer. We ate, played games and giggled, and I was a much happier woman than I would have been had I remained hunched over my computer.

"Thank you," I said to my daughter.

"For what, Mommy?"

"For taking me on a picnic," I said. "Well, you should thank yourself, too. You're the one who said yes."

Parents usually go to "no" as a first response when their children ask for anything outside the master plan.

"No, I don't want you to build a cushion fort in the living room right now; it makes a huge mess."

I've done it. But if a child wants to build a fort or engage in any other activity that promises a transient mess, why not let him or her?

Your little one has an idea and exploring ideas is such an integral ingredient of our kids' development. How else are they going to figure out what works or how to solve their own problems?

Saying "no" comes naturally because we think doing so is without consequences. We're wrong. Not only do we limit our children's personal possibilities, we also compromise many opportunities to bond with them and to show them a different side of ourselves.

So, next time, consider going straight to "yes." I guarantee the experience will be as satisfying and memorable for you as if you had planned the whole thing yourself.

Caesarean births linked to child obesity

New research published in the Archives of Disease in Childhood claims that C-sections may double the risk of childhood obesity. Big news, considering that around one in three babies are born this way in Canada.

The study followed 1,255 mothers and babies between 1999 and 2002. The babies were weighed at birth, six months and age three. Around one in four were C-sections, and those babies tended to weigh more than those from vaginal births.

Weird baby names get even weirder

The folks at Nameberry compiled the hundred wackiest monikers from the last year.

We're talking weird — from the future troublemakers Capone and Juvenal, to Mother Nature's son, Cougar, Fox and Bear. Not to mention the badasses, Tank and Notorious, Marvellous, Famous and Tupac.

For cultural trends, it's Mad Men all the way, with six Draper kids released into the world. Homage to the late Dirty Dancer, Swayze. And Elvis is back (if he ever went away), as are the corresponding names Graceland, Presley and Memphis.

The Royal wedding appears to have left its mark, as the absurdly conjoined Princewilliam, Princemichael and Sircharles will attest.

While the calendar has historically provided baby name inspiration (April, June), it saw some new twists, including Tomorrow, Evening and Future.

Oh, and intoxicants featured, too: Tequila, Chardonnay and (I kid you not) Abeer.

Hearty halibut is a perfect match for spring veggies

Roasted Halibut with Quinoa and Vegetables

This recipe serves six. NEWS CANADA

Ingredients

- 500 ml (2 cups) yellow quinoa, rinsed
- 500 g (1 lb) asparagus, stalks cut into 6 pieces on bias
- 1 l (4 cups) sugar snap peas, each cut into 4 pieces on bias
- 500 ml (2 cups) shelled green sweet peas
- 90 ml (1/3 cup) olive oil
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) finely chopped fresh chives
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) finely chopped fresh tarragon
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) grated lemon rind
- Salt and pepper
- 6 halibut fillets (each 150 g/5 oz)
- 2 sprigs fresh dill
- 2 lemons, thinly sliced
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) unsalted butter
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) white wine
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) lemon juice
- 250 ml (1 cup) toasted crushed whole almonds

Using a blend of fresh vegetables, the tangy zest of lemon and the crunch of toasted almonds, this light, savoury halibut dish is a perfect spring entrée.

1. Place quinoa in a rice cooker with 750 ml (3 cups) of water. Cook until tender and fluff with a fork.

2. Meanwhile, bring a large pot of salted water to a boil and prepare a bowl with ice water. Blanch asparagus, snap peas and sweet peas by placing them into the boiling water for about 1 minute for each batch. Strain and remove to ice water for another minute to stop the cooking. Drain and set aside.

3. Remove quinoa from rice cooker, place in a large bowl and mix with oil, chives, tarragon and lemon rind. Season with salt and pepper.

4. Season halibut with salt and pepper and place on a parchment-lined baking sheet. Place a sprig of dill on each piece of fish; layer each with 3 to 4 lemon slices and top with 5 ml (1 tsp) of the butter. Splash with white wine and bake, uncovered, in centre of 190 C (375 F) oven for about 7 minutes.

5. Brown remaining butter in a pan over medium-high heat. Add lemon juice and blanched vegetables and toss quickly. Season to taste and add toasted almonds to vegetables. To serve, arrange quinoa and fish on a plate and spoon vegetables around and over the fish.

Raising the roof: What green top would best suit your household?

QUEEN OF GREEN

What are some green roofing options?
Shannon of Calgary

First, dispose of the old roofing materials. I'm guessing you have asphalt shingles.

In Canada, about 1.25 million tonnes of asphalt-based roofing materials are discarded each year. But asphalt shingles are recyclable. Before you hire a roofing contractor, ask if your old shingles will be recycled. For smaller do-it-yourself jobs, look for a construction waste recycling depot near you.

Benefits of metal roofs:

- Recyclable and often made with recycled content (steel and aluminum)
- Highly durable, up to 100 years but the screws will only last 25 years
- Can be installed over asphalt shingles
- Reflect more energy = lower cooling costs in summer
- Ideal for water collection; i.e., rain barrels

Avoid copper roofs, which take a lot of energy to make and create pollution. Also avoid zinc to treat rust; instead, request a powder coating. Finally, ensure your aluminum roof has a baked-on resin that meets national drinking water standards to avoid contaminating runoff.

Benefits of recycled rubber roofs:

- They're often made from old tires!
- Very durable (50 years)

The biggest problems are off-gassing, contamination of rainwater and heat absorption from the black colour (increasing your cooling bill in summer).

Benefits of green roofs (plants growing over a waterproof membrane):

- Lower cooling costs by 50 to 90 per cent
- Minimize rainwater runoff
- Act as a carbon sink
- Reduce the urban heat island effect (cities regularly reach higher temperatures than the surrounding landscape because of the extra solar energy they absorb)

Today, this is cost prohibitive for most homeowners — starting at $18 a square foot. However, they are becoming more popular on commercial buildings with flat roofs due to their insulating properties, durability, stormwater mitigation and more.

Teresa Kruze
life@metronews.ca

Elio Madonia, seen here on the far left, presents a house to a family in need along with a group of donors who helped to build it.

Elio Madonia was strolling with his wife while on vacation in the Dominican Republic when he turned down the wrong street and walked into a poverty-stricken neighbourhood.

"I pointed my finger at God saying, 'Why do you allow this to happen?' At one point I heard a voice speaking to me. 'If you are really concerned, why don't you do something for them?'"

Elio was a pillar of the Italian community in Toronto and had recently sold his interest in several beverage companies.

He was also newly retired. The mayor of the town donated a piece of land and Elio went to work, building 25 new homes for the families he had met. That was in 1990.

Today, Madonia and The Samaritan Group have built and donated 10 villages filled with 1,200 homes, six schools, five medical centres and 12 churches.

"We work a lifetime to acquire wealth. Then we look back and say, 'Is this all there is to life?'All this experience, talent, skill and knowledge is now wasted on the golf courses of the world.

"Help those in need and leave a legacy that will influence the world."

Elio gives his two cents

Become employable by fall

Get off the couch!
Make this summer count and employers may just give your resumé a second look

School's out and finally you can catch up on all your favourite soaps, take long naps throughout the day, and read up on the latest celebrity gossip. It sounds like a great plan and is definitely deserved, but you may want to look into activities that will boost your chances of securing a job this fall. Make the most of the summer with these suggestions.

Participate in a new activity.
Interesting facts about yourself on your resumé will make you stand apart from the crowd and can provide some friendly banter in the midst of an intense job interview.

Find a mentor.
Get in touch with a professor, relative, or friend who is working in a field that you're interested in. Then ask lots of questions about their career journey to learn how they got to where they are. It will inspire you to take steps in the right direction.

Make a difference.
Think outside the box and see if there is a way to use your skills to help others. Are you good at directions? Volunteer to drive and deliver meals to seniors and shut-ins. Are you great at planning events? Host a fundraiser for a cause you're passionate about. Volunteering will pay off in the long run as employers look fondly on individuals who show initiative and work hard.

Lunch time? Better to skip the break room and skip to the loo

Germs. 'High degree of contamination' found on 75 per cent of faucets in the rooms where workers go to take a breather

CASSANDRA GARRISON
Metro World News

Hold on to your lunches and get ready for some nauseating news — a study that looked at germ counts in communal office break rooms found that the popular sites of co-worker lunch hours are actually filthier than the average toilet seat.

The research was conducted by Kimberly-Clark Corporation, a company that manufactures cleaning and disinfectant products, and consulted on by University of Arizona microbiologist Charles Gerba, according to Health Day News.

Researchers collected more than 5,000 swabs from office break rooms and their findings will make your skin crawl: 75 per cent of break room faucets, 48 per cent of microwave handles, 26 per cent of refrigerator handles, 23 per cent of water fountain buttons and 21 percent of vending machine buttons have "high degree of contamination." That makes the break room the dirtiest hot spot that workers touch all day.

The study didn't specify on the what types of germs were found in break rooms, but in Gerba's earlier work studying office desk tops, he found germs like diarrhea-causing norovirus, parainfluenza, and drug-resistant staph (MRSA). "The two things you spread in a break room are office gossip and germs," Gerba said.

How do these germs keep finding their way into the break room? Through common, everyday occurrences that you probably don't think twice about, like using a dirty sponge to wipe out your coffee cup. "You're really wiping your mug with E. coli," Gerba said.

Another way office employees spread germs is by greeting each other, a common activity when bumping into one another in the break room. "You'd be better off kissing each other than shaking hands," Gerba said, noting that our palms are loaded with germs that can make us sick.

Do germs spread faster than gossip in your office? ISTOCK

'Dr. Germ'

Desks are dirty, too

Professor Charles Gerba of the University of Arizona's Department of Soil, Water and Environmental Science is a fellow lucky enough to be nicknamed Dr. Germ. His studies of germs in the workplace have shown that the average office desktop has 400 times more bacteria than the office toilet seat.

Gerba's researchers found that a person can leave a nasty trail of viruses on every surface he or she touches — and viruses can live on surfaces for up to three days. They also noted that people who reported cleaning with a disinfectant had 25 per cent fewer bacteria in their offices than those who didn't. This prompted Dr. Germ to recommend using disinfecting wipes daily on surfaces in the office. NEW CANADA

It was his fifth win at Muirfield Village, and the 73rd of his PGA Tour career to match Nicklaus at No. 2 all-time. Sam Snead won a record 82 times.

Stampeders give punter from Down Under a look

CFL. Melbourne native competing for a job as the team opens camp in Calgary

The Calgary Stampeders opened training camp with an Australian painter trying out at kicker.

Scott Crough has a powerful leg from years of playing Australian rules football. He's trying to learn the Canadian game on the fly while shaking off heavy jet lag from his arrival in the country last week.

"I'm trying to get my head around it more and more every day," Crough said Sunday. "It's good to get some live snaps today and get a feel for it.

"I didn't kick so well. I think I've got the bad ones out now, so it's all good. I'm still a little bit raw, obviously and need to refine everything from the snap to the kick."

Crough (pronounced Crow) is a fun subplot to the more traditional discussion points of Calgary's training camp. The housepainter from Melbourne is competing with Rob Maver for the job of punter.

How Drew Tate will assert himself during a full season at starting quarterback and how the glut of linebackers will be resolved were some other trending topics at McMahon Stadium on the first day of camp.

The absence of quarterback Henry Burris and running back Joffrey Reynolds was glaring because they've been such fixtures at training camp over the years. Burris was traded to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in January after seven seasons as starting QB while eight-year veteran Reynolds was released outright.

But the Stampeder lineup otherwise looks similar to the one that finished 11-7 and lost in the West Division semifinal to the Edmonton Eskimos last season.

Calgary hosts Edmonton on June 15 and plays Saskatchewan on June 20 in pre-season games before opening at home July 1 against the Montreal Alouettes.

Scott Crough isn't the only punter from Down Under at a CFL training camp. Josh Bartel is on Hamilton's training-camp roster.

- The two men know each other well. Crough says they were roommates in the United States last summer while waiting for the NFL lockout to end and for opportunities to try out in that league.
- "We talk quite a bit because we're doing the same things on the same days basically," Crough said. "He's a really good friend and I hope he does well and makes the team."

Rondo's hot hand draws Celtics even with Heat

Rajon Rondo, left, drives against Mario Chalmers while Kevin Garnett watches on in the second half of Game 4 Sunday in Boston. JIM ROGASH/GETTY IMAGES

Rajon Rondo had 15 points and 15 assists, and scored the final three points of the Boston Celtics' 93-91 overtime victory over the Miami Heat on Sunday night that evened the Eastern Conference final at two games apiece.

Getting a huge break when LeBron James fouled out for the first time since joining the Heat, the Celtics recovered after blowing an 18-point lead in regulation to move two games away from a third trip to the NBA finals in five years.

Kevin Garnett added 17 points and 14 rebounds for the Celtics, while Paul Pierce scored 23 points before fouling out. Ray Allen finished with 16 points.

James had 29 points and Dwyane Wade scored 20 after another dismal start for the Heat, who host Game 5 on Tuesday.

In a game that started as a Celtics blowout and turned into a foul- and tension-filled fourth quarter, followed by the second overtime in this series, the Celtics held on when Wade missed a potential winning 3-pointer on the last possession.

"We knew they were going to Wade. I wanted to check him," Rondo said. "They set a great pick.... We're lucky we got a stop."

Rondo's layup gave the Celtics a 92-91 lead with 2:34 left, and neither team scored again until he made a free throw with 21 seconds to play. Wade, already finding it tough to locate any room with Chris Bosh and then having to do it James also on the sideline, saw his potential winning attempt bounce off the rim as time expired. David Goffin, in the draw as a "lucky loser" after falling in qualifying, found himself with a one-set lead against none other than his childhood favourite, Roger Federer, before falling 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20. Someone is about to find out just how much you dislike being taken advantage of.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21. Trust your own abilities, and trust that fate is still on your side.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Someone you live or work with seems to be under the impression that each time they do something wrong you will forgive them. It may have been true in the past but it's not true today.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Keep tasks to a minimum today and think before you act. Or don't act at all.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Before you make that purchase ask yourself if you really need it.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. The planets suggest that little things will be more important than big things today, so focus on the kind of details that others tend to overlook. On the home front especially your keen eye will spot danger quickly.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Everyone makes mistakes – yes, even a Libra – so put it down to experience and get on with your life.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. How do you turn good ideas into cash? That is the problem you will need to resolve over the next few days, but you must not be rash about it.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. Yes, it's true, someone has taken advantage of you, but seeking revenge isn't the answer. Today's eclipse in your sign urges you to forgive those who have done you wrong. But don't forget or they may do it again.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. The message of the stars for Capricorn this week is that not even someone as driven as you can change the world on your own

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. You must stick with the task or project you are working on, no matter how slowly it may be progressing.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. Although you are under a lot of pressure at the moment you will find ways to deal with it. Pisces is an adaptable sign, so if one way does not seem to be working for you just try something else.
